Mindfulness Workshop Series: Cultivating Wellness and Stress Reduction

“Mindfulness is about the act of purposefully paying attention to experiences as they are, and not how we say they are because of our conditioning histories... When clients experience that they need not run from or struggle against their anxious thoughts and feelings, they become free to live.” (Eifert, G., & Forsyth, J. (2005, 74, 70).

Dr. David Zuniga will be providing mindfulness and stress reduction classes beginning in February 2016.

Mindfulness is a research-based method for cultivating wellness and lowering stress by learning to pay attention to your thoughts, physical sensations, and emotions. Inspired by the work of Dr. John Kabat-Zinn and other researchers, this six-week mindfulness course will teach practical, meditation-based skills to cultivate insight and a richer awareness in your daily life and activities. The class consists of meditation exercises as well as a commitment to daily self-care exercises throughout the week. The practices you will learn in this group will help you to:

- * Become better acquainted with the inner working of your mind, including entrenched patterns and habits.
- * Understand ways that unconscious thoughts, feelings, and beliefs can undermine our physical and emotional well-being.
- * Learn and practice research-based meditative methods for lowering stress and enhancing a sense of wellbeing.

Date and Time: The first six-week series will begin on Tuesday, February 16, and conclude on Tuesday, March 22. All classes in this series will be from 12:00 to 1:30PM.

* How to enroll: Call or email Dr. Zuniga (david@drdaavidzuniga.com, 512-815-3477) to schedule a brief free consultation to discuss enrolling in this series of classes. Free funding may be available for some oncology patients or oncology caregivers via The Flatwater Foundation.

Details: Dr. Zuniga's office is conveniently located off Mopac near Zilker Park. Participants agree to attend all 6 sessions and engage in daily meditation and self-care exercises, which they learn in class, throughout the duration of the course. The course is $50/session.
